

N.C. Wyeth

Title

Genghis Khan's eyes were fixed upon the dark scarred face of the young man in front of him. Little could be hidden from those eyes, and suddenly the young man knew that he stood revealed. The inscrutable eyes gave no sign, but at last Genghis Khan beckoned to the girl, and she came and stood beside him.

Date

1932

Dimensions

dimensions unavailable

Catalogue Number

SUPP2000.1669

Credit Line

known by reproduction only