

Frank E. Schoonover

Frank E. Schoonover

Title

Corn Shocks on Will Eshbach's Farm

Medium

Oil on canvas

Date

1937

Catalogue Number

2020.11.1

Copyright

© artist's estate

Credit Line

Gift of Gray and Geoff Parker in memory of Peter and Robin Parker, 2020

Web Description

One of the leading illustrators to come from the Brandywine School, Frank E. Schoonover devoted himself almost exclusively to landscape painting in the late 1930s, after the decline in the popularity of illustrated books and magazines. This wildly expressive and Impressionistic painting depicts a spot in Pike County, Pennsylvania, where Schoonover had a summer home and studio. According to his diary, the morning after he bought his property, he visited the farm of Will Eshbach, depicted here, seeking his gardening advice.